

CREATIONS MAGAZINE
August-September 2013

Leap of Perception: Acceleration and Transformation

by Penney Peirce

Part 1

The global recovery of archaic memories is causing a mind-bending spiritual crisis that is reaching its apotheosis due to time acceleration ... time acceleration is causing old ways to end, not our planet.

—Barbara Hand Clow

A new time is upon us! If you've been paying attention, you've certainly noticed the volatility, dramatic ups and downs, sudden breakthroughs and life changes, and the widening gap between fear-based people and compassion-based people. Large segments of society are progressing steadily into chaos as old systems and ways of thinking fail to produce results. At the same time, other segments are progressing toward spiritual and mental clarity, innovative solutions to societal problems, and greater peace and abundance. It's an amazing drama to watch and participate in.

These symptoms are the early signs of a sweeping change that is transforming us into a new kind of human being, living in a new world, with new rules. We are just now realizing that the changes afoot are different than documented historical changes; we are participating in a profound process that has never been experienced en masse on earth.

Rediscovering Perception

We are experiencing the acceleration, or increased vibration, of individual and planetary consciousness—and this is giving rise to a new reality that will eclipse the pain, suffering, and density we have always accepted as normal. This is transformation. By understanding the overall transformation process, you can move through it and be a “thought leader” and role model for others.

Life Is Accelerating and So Are You

Transformation begins with an acceleration process; the vibration of the earth, and of our bodies, has been steadily increasing for many years. We’re not sure why this is occurring—perhaps it’s a cosmic source of high-vibrational energy that’s flowing through our solar system—but it is measurable; the vibration of the earth itself, called the Schumann Resonance, has been increasing. When the frequency of matter increases, so does our ability to access a matching vibration of consciousness. Our minds expand. Life itself speeds up.

The future has a way of arriving unannounced.

—George Will

The Mayans understood the increasing frequency of the planet. Their dates relate closely to the earth’s biological and evolutionary cycles, which science has just recently documented. Now that the vibration of the planet is moving so fast, everything seems to be happening in the present moment. With that speed comes emotional intensity. Things we haven’t wanted to deal with—our fears—can no longer be denied, postponed, or kept in the past; they’re immediate and in our face. Barbara Hand Clow says, “Our unresolved inner traumas are arising like great monsters in our hearts and minds.”

For years, you and I (and other energetically sensitive people) have intuitively experienced this acceleration as it increased the subtle frequency of our bodies. While on the surface it may have worried you, deep down you probably suspected you were preparing for something exciting and good—a shift in consciousness toward enlightenment, a new reality that might resemble heaven on earth. You probably sensed it wouldn’t come without consistent work on clearing yourself of the unresolved inner traumas, and certainly not without some upheaval in the world. It may seem odd, but I’d bet most of us have been secretly looking forward to it.

As you and the world vibrate at a higher frequency, your perception naturally expands; your worldview shifts as your vibration shifts. At a higher frequency, you become conscious of the nonphysical world and can now perceive yourself, everyone, and everything as energy rather than as slow, solid bodies or objects separated by empty space. In effect, you can “see through” or feel into the solidity of matter to experience the energy patterns inside. Everything is vibrating at its own particular frequency, and the world is full of a symphony of tones.

You notice energy inside and between everything; there’s no space devoid of it. Then you discover that energy is connected to conscious-ness. You notice that when you change your energy level, your consciousness changes; when you shift your consciousness, your energy shifts too. You can feel how the resonance of different forms can be harmonious or dissonant when combined, and how there is a natural tendency to seek vibratory coherence.

As the world increases in vibration, processes become more instantaneous. Cause-and-effect ceases to be the primary rule for materializing results. What you want to create happens effortlessly, miraculously, with no logical explanation, in a twinkling. Everything is faster and easier. You experience the fact that much more is contained in the present moment than ever before—it is mushrooming to include increasing amounts of the past and future. If everything is in the moment with you, you don't have to wait for answers, assistance, or results. You just need to ask and receive.

Evolving from the Information Age to the Intuition Age

It may help to understand transformation by seeing it as the natural continuation of an evolution process that's been steadily progressing on earth for ages—literally 16.4 billion years. We know that adaptation and growth are inexorable. Species evolve, life evolves, and with evolution comes expansion of knowledge, greater functionality, more connectivity, and speed. Just looking into the recent past, we can trace our evolution from the Dark Ages to the Renaissance to the Industrial Revolution. The acceleration has now brought us from the relatively slow Industrial Age, with its emphasis on physical, mechanical, linear (cause-and-effect) processes, into the Information Age, which emphasizes knowledge, access to increasing amounts of information, the speed of mental processing and data delivery, and multidirectional, simultaneous interconnectivity.

Television and computers—high-frequency machines—marked the end of the Industrial Age and shot us into the Information Age. Now the Internet and global communications media have accelerated life even more. The Information Age is so fast, and we have access to so much data, that we can barely keep up. Our minds, dominated by left-brain compartmentalization, are still trying to integrate the vast amounts of information in a linear way by multitasking insanely or by skimming along the surface, sacrificing depth for speed. This creates myriad stresses, from hyperactivity to bloated workdays (with insomnia at night) to “nature deficit disorder” as people remain glued to electronic screens.

too slow and antiquated; their methodologies are malfunctioning and failing to produce results. What used to work is now being superseded by a new age—a new reality with new methodologies. As this happens, the old constructs slowly integrate into a larger, more comprehensive context. My term for the emerging, transformed reality is the Intuition Age because unlimited, holistic, direct knowing is its hallmark.

As the Information Age speeds toward its leap into hyperspace and to the next breakthrough experience, we see that the old physical and mental realities are no longer expansive enough. They're

The Intuition Age focuses on spirit, and you may already be experiencing its nascent stages. You've known yourself as a body in the Industrial Age and a mind in the Information Age, and as the Intuition Age begins, you're remembering that, above all, you're a soul. One of my colleagues calls this flow toward transformation “the Soul Movement.” A new, more rarified perception is emerging—one based on intuition and sensing frequencies of energy. This expanded perception takes you straight into the nonphysical world so you're able to see people as more than just physical beings—you now realize there is a powerful, inner spiritual component. And you know this is true for objects and space as well—everything is made of higher vibrational consciousness- and-energy.

What Are We Transforming Into?

So, you're accelerating and transforming. What does that mean? It means your increasing vibration is giving you the ability to perceive much more of the way life really works, with more access to exciting possibilities and a hugely expanded sense of who you are. Your fundamental identity is evolving; you're becoming a new kind of human. After transformation, any remnants of that old self-protective, dominating, isolated, ego-self—that small identity we've always assumed was part of being human—disappears and a much greater self rises. What was fear-based becomes love-based.

Transformation is the beginning of knowing yourself fully and loving what you are; you have a very real felt sense of your soul in your body, as your personality, all the time. Your consciousness-and-energy increase dramatically. You can access information from dimensions or frequencies of consciousness you didn't realize even existed previously. Your options increase, your human abilities increase. You are not the same person, yet you are more of who you really are. Then you leapfrog over that to become even more of who you are, and as this continues, you are pleasantly surprised each time.

The "transformed you" lives in a transformed reality where you understand how the inner, consciousness-and-energy world and the outer, physical world work as a seamless continuum. What used to be separate convenes—left-right brain, head-heart, body-mind, inside-outside world. These integrations expand you into new territory where the whole is greater than the sum of the parts. Compassion becomes the main evolutionary force, a crucial part of the new consciousness that ensures success and planetary survival.

When transformation begins, there's a tendency to first feel it as a purely energetic process. Your body is disturbed, there are stresses and time pressures—a "time famine"—and upsetting emotions affect you. The intensity may even affect your health. You experience how your energy affects your reality. As the process continues, you experience how the rising frequency is changing your consciousness too. You perceive more, learn more, and understand how your thoughts affect your reality.

As you successfully navigate the stages of opening, and your body adapts to the higher energy, you feel better. You get used to the new speed of life. Your emotions stabilize, and you feel happier, more harmonious, enthusiastic, and positive. The positive feelings beget a higher quality of thought; you stop complaining and criticizing, are receptive to new ideas, and are more curious. Positive imagination reemerges, serving a renewed desire to create things that resonate with your destiny. You realize you were previously using your imagination unconsciously to create negative situations. "What a waste of energy!" you say. You see how your high-frequency thoughts and feelings are creating a better life, a more effortless reality. Living is more fun. Now you are a high-frequency personality, embodying more of your soul and spiritual truth in everything you do.

How Transformation Works

"But," you ask, "how does transformation occur? Will it hurt?" To achieve transformation, you first have to make a profound shift in the way you know things. How you make your world real to yourself must undergo deep revision. You can't just keep processing data the way we're doing it now—with an almost desperate need for speed. You need a new methodology that lets you naturally and effortlessly jump into expanded perception. This transformational shift, or leap of perception, requires new pathways through your brain, new habits of sensing and knowing, and seeing that your "brain" actually includes your heart, body, cells, and even the field of energy around you. You have a much greater sensing apparatus than you may have imagined. If you can't figure out how to "rewire" your brain and access the many new pathways in your non-localized brain centers, not to worry! The acceleration process is taking you there, revealing the insights one by one. Transformation is a process composed of a series of shifts. If you understand and embrace the doable tasks required for each shift, you'll sail through the process. If you resist, the process will happen anyway, and you'll be dragged along, kicking and screaming. So, no, transformation doesn't hurt—unless you block the Flow.

Entering the nonphysical world is one of the first big steps in the transformation process. When you remember to meditate, or pray and bless others, or revere nature, you deepen yourself, dropping through the physical world; you activate a mystical connection to the ineffable. You must enter the inner world to be able to transform yourself. And this is where intuition becomes so important, because intuition is the means by which you know and navigate in the nonphysical world. In the consciousness-and-energy reality you don't think logically; you sense, feel, and know directly. You're merged with what you experience. With intuition, you discover principles of oneness and learn to function in the unified field, or infinite sea of consciousness-and-energy. All ideas, resources, and realities are available and possible in the unified field, so your consciousness increases exponentially. In the nonphysical world, everything is interconnected, mutually inclusive, and supportive. Experiencing the truth of unity reveals the dynamics of the Intuition Age.

Eventually, you become comfortable living in both the physical and nonphysical worlds, feeling how they are simultaneous, affecting each other instantly. For example, you might instantly feel how a sarcastic comment you make about a friend to her face shuts her down emotionally. Your physical action creates a non-physical effect that has ripples: both you and your friend feel worse than you did before, and that contracted inner state inhibits full self-expression in the outer world. The inner inhibition continues until one of you says something in the physical world, then instantly, the inner state changes, energy flows again, and expanded self-expression resumes in both of you.

Being permanently rooted in the center of the present moment is yet another important part of the transformation process. When you live permanently in the present moment, there is no more projection—no more casting your attention along lines to other points in time and space that seem separate from you. There is no more separation. The past and future are inside the present moment, too, along with all ideas and everything else in your reality. This causes you to experience a natural change in the geometry of your perception. You see that the old, linear perception—perception limited to timelines, cause-and-effect processes, and lines of thought—doesn't function well anymore, and you begin to experience life as a ball, or a sphere, surrounding you equally in all directions. It's important to remember that when the physical and nonphysical realities are merged, and when everything is in the present moment, any change always occurs simultaneously in both worlds. Every nonphysical perceptual shift corresponds with a matching shift in your physical brain, body, and daily life— and it happens instantaneously.

Please make sure to look for Part 2 in our October-November Issue*

This edited excerpt is from the book, Leap of Perception by Penney Peirce and reprinted with permission of Beyond Word Publishing/ Atria Books, Hillsboro, Oregon.

Penney Peirce is an intuitive empath and visionary, and has been a pioneer in the field of intuition development and consciousness expansion since 1977. She travels internationally as a trainer and coach to business executives, government leaders, scientists, psychologists, and those on a spiritual path – and has counseled tens of thousands of people about personal transformation. Peirce has been affiliated with The Center for Applied Intuition, The Institute for the Study of Conscious Evolution, The Kaiser Institute, and The Arlington Institute. She has been a TV talk show host and is the author of six books.