

Penney Peirce's 2024 Oracle Letter

copyright by Penney Peirce

Some very intense energy came streaming into our world last year. Of course, the earth's frequency has been accelerating for years, coming in waves, but those earlier waves were less disturbing and easier to frequency-match with our body, feelings, and mind. Last year, though, many people experienced extreme stresses—endings, losses, deaths, accidents, illness, violence, even war. I myself had a very sudden and totally unexpected heart "episode" and ended up having open-heart surgery and "recovering" in a slow, often frustrating process the rest of the year. One day getting a haircut and doing errands, the next in cardiac ICU. What a wakeup call! Or maybe it was a big expansive leap in perception that I am now gradually integrating.

2024 promises to be an extension of this intensity. I don't say this to instill foreboding or fear in anyone, because I'm actually excited about it! When I felt into what was happening below the surface last year, I "got" that we—meaning humanity—have reached a real turning point in our process of transformation.

It's CHOICE Time. Real, 100%, Choice Time. Enter the Flow. Be one with it. Understand its sanity. Match the high frequencies with every cell of your body. Dissolve every solid, shadowy place in your subconscious, vaporize your excuses, and replace all negative thinking and feeling with love and compassion. Feel like being pissy or catty or Eeyore-like? Just don't! It's a waste of mind and wind. Notice why you use that bad habit. Then drop it into the field to unpattern and unravel itself. You don't need it! You're beyond it.

We're Entering the "New Human" Experience

Many of us have been on a spiritual path for years, focusing on clearing fear and blockages—and we've been doing a good job. But we've had the feeling that there was all the time in the world. "I can do more tomorrow; it's a long process, after all." I'm certain that's what cutting open and stopping-restarting my heart was all about—"Yes, Penney, you're a loving person but have you CHOSEN to be 100% of the love that you actually are? Have you truly experienced how you belong?"

I think if you feel down into the motive behind your focus on spiritual growth, you'll notice there has always been some underlying pressure involved, a sense that this is the lifetime to complete something big. There is a palpable urgency. You may feel the way a kernel of popcorn probably feels just before it explodes into its newly expanded fluffy white self. You're experiencing the first signs of the transformed, soul-based reality.

Time is superfluid and elastic right now. You can stall, stall, stall, and at the last moment, by being 100% present, one powerful choice, integration, and realization can snap you into a full-blown shift and all that goes with it. This doesn't mean you can be cavalier about clearing yourself. Nor must you be like a sprinter pouring on the juice. Going along, "sort of" getting clear, waiting to see what might happen, is actually a CHOICE to not be totally soul-sourced and transparent. You become transparent by not holding fear and fear-avoidance behaviors to yourself as part of your identity.

But what are we preparing for? Transforming for? I've written about this in the Final Thoughts section at the end of Transparency. I've had a number of visionary dreams reminding me that we are approaching the time when the earth reaches a certain vibration and makes a dramatic upward shift in frequency. In effect, it transforms into a planet based on light. Those of us who have kept pace and adapted gradually to the accelerating vibration, move along as part of the collective energy. Consciousness aligns with harmony and compassion. Memory of who you really are is revealed.

The Nano-Second of Non-Time

In my early dreams, I "remembered" that there would be an event, called "The Void." To flow with this event, we had to become "like the Void"—in other words, clear the solid blockages caused by fear and become transparent. This shift would occur in what Ken Carey, author of The Starseed Transmissions (which I heartily recommend), calls "a micro-interval of non-time, or a nano-second of non-time, a moment of eternity." This non-linear "event" would not be like a volcano exploding or a devastating global flood or ice age. It would be barely perceptible, like what happens between an inhale and exhale. We will blink out and back in again, from the form reality to the energy-and-consciousness reality and back, as we do all day and at night, oscillating between the left brain, then right brain, and back to the left—being conscious of the 3D world, then "spacing out," then showing up again.

During this pause or micro-interval of non-action between the two frequencies of reality, we will experience a massive influx or "tsunami" of extreme high-frequency energy. If we're transparent, when we blink back we won't know much has happened, just that more people are free of ego, cooperative, generous, grateful, creative, open-minded, and communicating deep truth. If we're still contracted, identifying with ego, and in resistance, we will have intensified upsets, problems, and repercussions trying to integrate what just happened, some “cause” we cannot comprehend.

The current acceleration waves assist you in easing this shift. Many of you are cycling through the clearing of fear very rapidly now. Not much processing necessary. Receive the teaching/message you’re trying to give yourself each time you react in fear, and you don't need the fear. You drop the energy pattern and old beliefs back into the field and it's gone—and hard to remember you were ever triggered that way. As your frequency rises and you allow it to change you, you remember more and open into a higher, more inclusive worldview. You see that feeling offended, disappointed, or threatened are old and boring ways to be. Let’s move on!

Quit Getting High on Polarization!

So what will we see this year and the next few years? We're already seeing it: Intensified polarization! Women-men, liberals-conservatives, rich-poor, older-younger generations, dark-light skin, and on and on. “What’s not like me is a threat to me and I must ignore it, distance myself, or get rid of it.” Fear-based people want others to look and act as they do and want security to be physical and defined. Protection of the self and habitual way of life become prominent. Witness: resistance, belittling of others, meanness, and anger—caused by mental fixations and emotional defensiveness, all intensified due to the increasing frequency of the planet. Many have wonderfully open hearts until fundamental beliefs are challenged by differing points of view.

People who resist change and growth are disturbed by the acceleration and tend to hold back, hold on, and hold forth loudly. Fear causes contraction and aberrations in perception—mental extremes—so there is much confusion about what's real and true. Lies seem true. What’s neutral is made to seem polarized. Conspiracy theories seem like common sense. Retribution, crime, and violence seem good. Giving power to dictators seems a way to be safe. Being saved by someone more powerful than we are means we don’t have to look at our fear or do the work of becoming truly clear. Idealism, good character, and service cease to guide us.

On the other hand, many are adapting rapidly to the increasing frequency, making radical positive shifts in their understanding and behavior. Ego loses credibility and becomes the source of ignorance. Working with the nonphysical realms, as with intuition and focused imagination, brings heightened clarity and ease. This group is not oppositional, but inclusive. And quite misunderstood by the polarized group.

If you're part of the adapting, higher frequency group, part of your growth is to see others, not as opposed to you but as part of the whole of humanity, as loving souls at heart. That doesn't mean seeing through rose-colored glasses. There are things to stand up for to remind all of us of the reality of universal principles, goodness, harmony, and evolution. You are teachers, healers, and innovators, not dominators. You look for how things are interrelated, aspects of yourself and the whole. You see that differences don't divide, but come together to make a richer, bigger, more interesting reality for everyone. It's a priority now for as many people as possible to DROP POLARIZATION.

Some Things We Will See

We will see: As the frequency increases, those who resist spiritual expansion may try to remove the individual rights of "others" while saving privilege for themselves. Those who would destroy in order to change what they dislike will not succeed for long because projecting destruction onto others also causes destruction within themselves. What you project onto others you are also experiencing or will experience. It could be a weakening of the connection with the true self, or health, relationships, or success. This is a powerful teaching, a way to see where we have "missed the mark" or misunderstood universal principles.

We will see: Hatred raising its head around the world. War and threats of new wars. Lack of tolerance all around. Violence as a form of ego. Targeting certain populations for attack. Assassinations. Not being able to see or understand each other's realities. People trying to separate from each other—to just "get away." The idea being floated that Texas should secede from the United States is an example. People moving to other countries or off-grid for a "safer" life.

We will see: The rise of ego-based, dictatorial leaders and influencers who are toxic narcissists, skilled at seducing others and creating fear in them simultaneously. They flood governance, corporate leadership, and social media. They have no compassion, only self-interest, and think money, power, and blind loyalty from followers are necessary for their own survival. Just because they're loud and shocking doesn't mean they're real or even that strong. Domination by ego has a short-lived time to remain in the spotlight.

We will see: Rapid fluctuations in the value of money; in stock markets globally, instability of cryptocurrencies, and the repercussions of greed and scarcity thinking. We are being reminded of the effect our inner mindset has on money-flow. There may be a stronger polarity concerning hoarding and generosity; meaning bigger losses, gains, and flip-flopping between the two. Is driving ambition really necessary? Does wealth equate with self-esteem? Is money really separate from us?

We will see: More people dying from various causes; in mass accidents, earth upheavals, illnesses, gun-related incidents, drug overdoses, and hate crimes. Mental illness, depression, addiction, SIDS, and suicide increase. The main inner cause: people subliminally feel they can't handle what's happening in the 3D world. "I'll just leave, rest a while, and come back (be reborn) later when it's calmer." No one is bad or wrong, just overwhelmed, or tired from feeling unloved, unsafe, and isolated. There may be a drop in the birth rate globally.

We will see: All processes speed up—innovation and evolution, as well as the disillusionment, deconstruction, and elimination of what's become dysfunctional. In spite of much negativity, there is accelerated growth concerning the positive in life. Many become more realized, self-expressive, outspoken, courageous, and innovative. The balance of power shifts from old, self-protective thinking to new, unitive, evolutionary perception. Negative events act as slingshots to bring positive expansion, opportunities, spiritual growth, and collaborations aimed at healing world problems and developing better systems based on universal truth.

We will see: A shift in what identity means. Many people who have not had a strong sense of self-worth or unique personal identity, perhaps through abuse or cultural bigotry and prejudice, brazenly broadcast their "greatness." Ego seems like identity. It's a step toward soul-as-self and full presence. Others look at their personal "story" and feel bored with it. They realize their story is not who they are—it's all about full presence. Their identity becomes more formless, fluid, experiential, and moment-to-moment. Ego fails to produce anticipated results when so many egos are competing.

We will see: More signs of the miraculous. Instantaneous healing and materializing. Innovations that solve big societal problems. Incidents of transparency reveal cowardice and "evil" that previously looked admirable, as well as showing that quieter people may have great character. Heroism increases at all levels, even by animals. Psychic abilities become more common.

We will see: New trends in health, like much lighter diets and smaller amounts of food consumption, decline in the popularity of alcohol, interest in more liquid meals—soups, smoothies, raw veggies and fruit, and pure water, often charged energetically by the sun or focused blessing.

We will see: A Convening—people with matching frequencies show up in each other’s realities, feel a sense of immediate recognition, aligned purpose, and visionary clarity. They have information the others need, like pieces in a big jigsaw puzzle. They find ways to work together and support each others’ work. Ego is not in the way.

We will see: Heightened interest in connecting with nonphysical beings, from dead relatives and friends, to angels and ascended masters, to UFOs/UAPs, and the intergalactic "races" that have existed on earth for thousands, even millions, of years. We won’t necessarily need “mediums” to do the connecting for us; we’ll do it ourselves. The intergalactics may reveal themselves in physical ways—sooner than later.

We will see: Worst possible scenarios, dire predictions, and dreaded outcomes are shown to be just possibilities, and not inevitable. Tides turn, destructive trends are interrupted and diverted via odd happenstances, sometimes at the last minute. Even global meditations for harmony have a far-reaching impact. You can help! Keep your mind out of catastrophizing, and add stability to the planetary grid and flow of energy and consciousness through it. Be one who nurtures the field by removing negativity and adding clarity and love. You can be a clear space in the field of earth.

In TRUST We Trust

You come to know your true self more intimately this year. You see into the heart of other people's loving nature. Ideas and answers come when you pause and allow yourself to know without effort. TRUST is the big word for 2024. Trust Yourself, the Flow, the Belonging, the Convening, the Sanity, the Soul Within All You See, the Experiment of Humanity, the Full and Utterly Compassionate Spiritual Realms. And trust the new speed of becoming transparent!

With Big Love,
